A digital economy with companies changing their traditional processes to digital processes, digital government – or eGovernment – becomes a cornerstone for a country's business environment. To attract foreign direct investment, support local companies growing, enable seamless import and export procedures, reduce the time and costs necessary to receive permits, increase transparency, avoid corruption and increase compliance – digital government enables administrations to achieve these goals. The presentation showcases the experience of setting up a One-Stop-Shop for companies within a federalistic state with a highly fragmented administration.
